Founded in 1948, IHS Herold (formerly John S. Herold, Inc.) is an independent research firm that specializes in the analysis of companies, transactions, and trends in the global energy industry. IHS Herold serves a global client base with timely, in-depth analyses and key financial and operational data on the valuation, performance, and strategy of more than 400 oil and gas companies.

The company's comprehensive online databases and deal analyses are essential for understanding and executing energy M&A and capital markets transactions. As a uniquely positioned information services firm, the IHS Herold client base is comprised of virtually every major oil company, the world's leading commercial and investment banks, and top institutional and investment money managers.

Products & Services

IHS Herold offers clients online access to databases and research reports, analyst consultation and expert advisory services. Products and service retainers include proprietary research of company transactions and trends in the global energy industry.
